Call for Nominations
Board of Regents Faculty Awards

On behalf of the Board of Regents and President Mark E. Ojakian, I am again honored to invite nominations for campus-based and system-wide recognitions of excellence in teaching or research/creative/scholarly work by full-time, junior faculty members and part-time faculty members of the Connecticut State Colleges and Universities. The awards are:

Teaching Awards

The awards are given to recognize faculty who have distinguished themselves as outstanding teachers for at least five years and have a minimum of two years' record of accomplishment of promoting instructional improvements for the programs/departments. Each CSU institution may nominate a campus-based awardee and a system-wide awardee will be chosen from this group. Each community college may nominate a campus-based awardee and a system-wide awardee will be chosen from this group. During each academic year, the Board of Regents might award up to 18 Teaching Awards.

Research Awards

The awards are given to recognize faculty from the state universities who are doing exceptional research/creative work. Each CSU institution may nominate a campus-based awardee and a system-wide awardee will be chosen from this group. During each academic year, the Board of Regents might award up to five Research Awards.

Scholarly Excellence Awards

The awards are given to recognize faculty at the community colleges who are doing exceptional scholarly work befitting the community college mission. Each community college may nominate a campus-based awardee and a system-wide awardee will be chosen from this group. During each academic year, the Board of Regents might award up to 13 Scholarly Excellence Awards.

Adjunct Faculty Teaching Awards

The awards are given to recognize part-time faculty who have distinguished themselves as outstanding teachers with a record of accomplishment of increasing student learning and promoting instructional improvements for the programs/departments. There are no campus-based awardees for this award. Each of the 17 CSCU institutions may elect to nominate a candidate for an adjunct faculty teaching award and from this pool, two applicants might be selected to receive system-wide awards. During each academic year, the Board of Regents might award two Adjunct Faculty Teaching Awards.

Although campus-based and system-wide awardees are not eligible to be nominated for an award over the course of the three subsequent years, non-award winning nominees from previous years may be nominated again in succeeding years.

Each institutional selection procedure will be developed and implemented under the leadership of the respective chief academic officer. Institutional nominations are to be submitted electronically by its president to the Board of Regents through the office of the president or the chief academic officer. Nominations will be reviewed by selection committees that make recommendations to the Board's Academic and Student Affairs Committee for its review and subsequent endorsement to the full Board for its approval.

Guidelines for the nomination and selection procedures have been established for each award. The guidelines, a detailed timeline for the awards' procedures and a template for a cover sheet are attached to this memorandum and are available at the system's website. The deadline for submission of nominations to the System Office is January 14, 2019.
