

Connecticut State Community College
State Success Team Charge

Group Name: State Success Team (SST)

Group Charge:

The SST is a collective voice of faculty and staff leadership from all twelve campuses and the Connecticut State Community College cabinet. The State Success team is supported by the CSCU Success Center and works in partnership with national organizations including Achieving the Dream.

The SST exists to:

- Respond to student needs and help all students achieve their dreams
- Advocate for ideas that promote equity in education at all Connecticut State Community College campuses
- Examine State, regional, and local data, both in aggregate and disaggregate, to better understand our systems and students
- Facilitate the implementation of Guided Pathways policies as approved by the CSCU Board of Regents
- Share local and national best practices across Connecticut State Community College as well as maintain an inventory of student success initiatives at the college
- Amplify campus perspectives to help shape and inform the Connecticut State Community College strategic plan

SST members lead their campus ATD/Student Success team and work with their CEO and other colleagues to advocate for local needs and ensure the success of their students.

Group Leads: David Levinson, interim President, Connecticut State Community College; Greg DeSantis, Associate Vice President of Student Success and Academic Initiatives, CSCU; Amanda MacTaggart, Associate Director of the Student Success Center, CSCU, and Jodi Calvert, Associate Dean of Student Services, Three Rivers.

Group Membership: Members include all faculty SST leads and Enrollment Management and Student Affairs staff SST leads, CSCU Success Center staff and coaches, the Connecticut State Community College President and cabinet, and other related stakeholders as determined by the group leads.

Charged by David Levinson,
